by Hillary Morgan Ferrer

I grew up in the church and was always interested in the things of God. I knew I was supposed to pray, but I wasn't quite sure how. To this day, I have notebooks full of prayer lists that I made in junior high and high school. There is nothing profound in those prayers. I'm embarrassed to admit that I mostly prayed for popularity and for boys to like me. (Give me a break! I was in junior high. That's what junior high girls think about!) Even in those meager attempts to follow God, the Lord developed in me the habit of coming to Him with my uncensored thoughts—praying what was actually on my mind, not what I thought should be on my mind. The shamelessness of those prayers cultivated an honesty in talking to God. And that honesty led me to pray a prayer that essentially changed my life.

I was in the ninth grade, and our Bible study leader started a New Year's tradition where we wrote letters to ourselves documenting the past year and making projections for the future. At the end, we wrote out a prayer. The prayer I wrote in December 1993 became the model for my prayer life from that point forward:

Lord, I don't really want You...but I want to want You.

Talk about honest! Who straight-up tells God that she has no interest in Him, but that she kinda wants to? Me, that's who. By this time, I knew what prayers "should" sound like, but I had practiced being honest with the Lord for so many years that when I matured enough to pray for something that really mattered, I didn't feel pressured to sugarcoat it. The Lord knew my heart. He knew if I desired Him or not. Why pretend to be anything other than what I was? It's not like I had lost my interest in following God. I wasn't in any kind of rebellion. However, I heard people talking about having a desire and yearning for the Lord, and I knew that—emotionally—I didn't have that. But I really wanted to! Starting that ninth-grade year, I saw the Lord faithfully answer that prayer, slowly changing me from a "good Christian girl" into an avid disciple.

That one simple prayer served as the "aha moment" for the rest of my life. And an aha moment is my hope for you too! Often, we are so consumed with what we think our prayers should sound like that we neglect to say what we are actually thinking. God knows our thoughts! He's not going to be surprised that we're not more "spiritual sounding." There's nothing in Scripture about Him valuing elegant prayers more than simple ones. (Just the opposite, really.) So why not come to Him as we are since He already knows? Picture your kids coming to you like, "Oh, thou art my wholesome parental unit! Wilt thou doth grant me this sugary confection that delighteth my eyes and bringeth joy to mine heart?" rather than "I want a cookie." If it's right before dinner, the answer is no either way. And if we're at a carnival, it's probably yes either way!

Often, we are so consumed with what we think our prayers should sound like that we neglect to say what we are actually thinking.

An honest prayer is one in which you are willing to sound stupid, say the wrong thing, or admit things out loud that might be embarrassing for someone to hear. When we try and dress up our prayers, we aren't fooling God. More often than not, we are fooling ourselves.

Gifts to Lift Her Heart & Soul

THE STORMS OF LIFE

What do you do when the storms of life hit? Do you try to hold on tight, stand firm and hope for the best?

When Jesus was with His disciples in a boat on the Sea of Galilee, a great storm blew in. The disciples panicked and went to wake up Jesus. "And they woke him and said to him, 'Teacher, do you not care that we are perishing?' And he awoke and rebuked the wind and said to the sea, 'Peace! Be still!' And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm. He said to them, 'Why are you so afraid? Have you still no faith?'" (Mark 4:38-40)

Although Jesus was in the boat with them, the disciples were afraid because they did not have their faith in the One who could save them. What about you? What are you trusting in to save you—status, possessions, relationships, career, yourself? Like the winds of change, the things of this world can be here one day and gone the next.

Jesus is with you and able to save you and satisfy your greatest need—your need for a Savior.

According to Romans 6:23, "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord." Although we are all sinners (Romans 3:23) and cannot save ourselves from the consequence of sin, there is hope. God has offered you a gift of eternal life through Jesus. Romans 5:8 says, "But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us." Jesus, who is without sin, paid the price for your sins through His death on the cross and won the victory over death when He rose again the third day. Therefore, it is only through Him that you can be saved.

John 3:16 says, "For God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." Will you now take God at His word and accept Jesus as your Savior from sin?

If you would like to have the gift of eternal life, you may use the following prayer as a guide to express your desire to God:

*Dear God,
I know that I am a sinner. Thank you for sending your perfect Son to die in my place. I know that it is only through His sacrificial death on the cross and resurrection from the dead that I am able to have a new life in You. Thank you for saving me. In Jesus' name, Amen*

If you have accepted God's gift of new life, please let us know so we can encourage you and pray for you.

MORE to life Feeling Exhausted

by Jess Connolly

I love a good meme or hilarious quote that makes its way around the internet. Some of my favorites are the following:

The real miracle Jesus performed was having twelve friends in his thirties.

Sitting in your car outside your house is self-care. I don't know why—it just is.

You don't go to Target because you need something. You go to Target and let Target tell you what you need.

I don't love when a meme starts making its way around the internet and settles in our hearts as truth but is actually a horrible lie that will mess with us for the rest of our lives.

And in that category, I'd like to present Exhibit A, my least favorite meme phrase:

Adulthood is a cycle of constantly saying, "I just have to get through these few weeks," repeatedly.

Of course, I hate it because I've said it way too often myself. But probably right around the first time I saw a little graphic with this quote pop up, I began questioning if there was potentially any other way for me, for us, to live.

Because, friends, I can't do it anymore.

I refuse to keep living a life where the best I can hope for is an endless loop of exhaustion and listless living.

I refuse to live a life where I'm numb all day until I eventually crash, constantly hypnotized by hurry, and missing the million tiny miracles of every day.

Unfortunately, the depiction of spiritual exhaustion has become so normal—it's like one big inside joke we all make about ourselves. Spiritual exhaustion becomes our reality when we trade God's care for our obligation, God's grace for earning love, and God's abundance for just getting through the day.

And at the very core of my soul, I cannot believe that Jesus meant for us to live like this. I cannot imagine that our loving Father, who created us with care and creativity, who placed us on earth as an act of glorifying Himself, who sent His Son to redeem our souls, who gave us the Spirit that raised Jesus Himself from the dead . . . I cannot imagine

He wants us to live at a pace that leaves us so exhausted that our only option is getting through.

Every single expression of exhaustion (physical, mental, and emotional) hinges on a spiritual tension that we as women of God have to explore: If God loves us and He gives rest to those He loves, then why are we living so incredibly tired and accepting this as our only possible reality?

Every single expression of exhaustion hinges on a spiritual tension

Why are we buying the lie that our lives are not meant to be abundant, whole, and free but instead, exhausted, overextended, and desperate for relief?

At its core, the fact that we're tired of being tired is a spiritual issue, and we need renewal in the form of spiritual revival as much as we need a nap, a day off, or a smaller to-do list.

God has made you for a life of abundance, not a life of exhaustion. It's time to quit the unsustainable pace and receive God's gift of realistic rest. Paperback $19.99
